A Christmas program that promises to be one of the most outstanding ever attempted in Circleville is being mapped by a committee comprised of the various civic, social and fraternal orders of the city. The celebration, which is to be started within the next 10 days when decorations are expected to be placed, will be concluded with the annual Christmas Tree party arranged by the American Legion in which the community's children are treated under a Yule tree at the courthouse plaza.

The committee is contemplating elaborate events including a Santa Claus parade, scheduled for Saturday, December 2, with a reception for Old Saint Nick and gifts for the children following the procession. This event gives promise of being a great one. Santa Claus will reach Circleville at 11 a. m. on December 2 and will remain here until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The parade will be at 1 o'clock. It will include Santa and his reindeer, a Christmas Queen and four attendants, nine floats, 150 costumed marchers, cowboys, cowgirls, live dogs, ponies, horses and sheep. Four bands are expected to participate in the parade.

Big Children's Party
Then on Christmas Eve will come the Legion's big Christmas Tree frolic with Santa Claus returning to Circleville to distribute gifts.

The committee in charge of the celebration is borrowing the Pumpkin Show's slogan of "Bigger and Better than Ever" in making plans for the holiday festival. Contributions will be needed to put on the event, and members of the committee plan to go to work within the next week to collect from all interested persons enough money to stage the celebration. One contribution will finance each person's share of the entire Yule program.

Street decorations, expected to be grand ones, will include the Court and Main Street arbor effect which has drawn so much comment from many persons who have seen it. Side-walk trees will be placed similar to last year, only the trees are expected to be larger and will be better lighted.

The committee hopes for 100 percent cooperation from all business and professional persons in the city in order that the gigantic program be made a success.

TAFT PREPARES FOR LONG TOUR THROUGH WEST

Senator Leaves Sunday To Speak In Numerous Key Centers

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18 — Continuing a trip cut short by the special neutrality session of congress, U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft leaves his Cincinnati home tomorrow for the West, hoping to strengthen his chances of being selected as the Republican choice for President.

His Cleveland headquarters today announced that on completion of the western swing on December 5, Taft will tour Maine and Massachusetts before Christmas, returning to the New England states after the year end holidays.

Armed with new ammunition since congress repealed the arms embargo, Ohio's junior senator in recent speeches has vigorously attacked the proposed transfer of American ships to Panama and advocated a more strict cash and carry policy than laid down in the administration bill, as the best means of avoiding involvement in the European war.

Taft's first stop will be in Kansas City, where he will remain Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday he will be in Des Moines and on Thursday in Omaha.

The trip will take Taft on a circuit of more than 3,000 miles and will make him the most traveled presidential aspirant of the current campaign.

While stopping the country is new to the son of the late President William Howard Taft, he is not unused to tours lasting weeks.

During his campaign for the senate in 1938 he showed remarkable stamina by making several speeches a night for more than three months in Ohio communities.

COLUMBUS DOG FANCIERS SEEK LAND FOR TRIALS

The possibility that Pickaway County may become a center of beagle competition was noted Saturday when it was learned that the Columbus Beagle Club, one of the biggest organizations of its kind in the Midwest, is seeking 1,000 acres of land on which to build a clubhouse and conduct its annual trials.

The acreage, which must be pasture land, need not be in one tract, persons who have conferred with the Beagle Club officials say, but may be in several tracts just so they are adjoining.

The club conducts two trials each year, one in the spring for a single day, and another in the fall for a full week. Usually 200 dogs vie in the competition bringing as many as 1,000 fanciers to the event.

The club, according to advices, would like to lease land near Circleville for the annual shows. Any persons interested in leasing land or any others who know of available land should contact the Columbus Beagle Club.

KANSAS CITY COLLEGE GIRL "GROWS" ENOUGH TO JOIN FLYING CLASS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 18 — It was a long pull but she made it and red-haired Kathleen Hildebrand, junior college sophomore, rejoiced today over the word she was big enough to join the school's aviation class. Turned down because she was just 5 feet 1 inch tall, a bare inch too short, Kathleen was given three weeks to grow the needed amount. By hanging from doorways, bending over chairs and remaining in bed until the last moment yesterday (she'd heard you are taller in the morning), she managed to scrape the 5 feet 2 beam.

TAX RATE JUMP IN CIRCLEVILLE TO BE BLOCKED

Circleville's real estate tax rate for 1939, tentatively set at $15.40 per $1,000 in property valuation last Tuesday by the Pickaway County Budget Commission, must be cut to $14.80.

The necessity of a reduction was announced Saturday by Auditor Forrest Short following a conference with the county affairs department of the Ohio Tax Commission. Circleville's rate for 1938 was $14.60 per $1,000 in property valuation.

The rate was tentatively boosted .9 of a mill to provide additional funds for Circleville Schools. The Board of Education requested the boost for operating expenses needed for purchasing text books now furnished free to students, for building repairs and to meet the assessment made on the schools for sewer rental charges.

Circleville's taxation rate included 3.3 mills for the county, a drop of .1 of a mill from last year; .3 of a mill for Circleville Township, the same as last year; 6.1 mills for Circleville city, same as last year, and 5.7 mills for schools as compared with 4.8 mills last year.

The boost in the assessment for schools was based on the contention that a .9 of a mill levy to meet a bond issue of $130,000 in 1916 should not be in the 10-mill limitation. When this levy was tentatively taken from inside the 10-mill limitation a similar levy was made inside the limitation for operating expenses.

The state tax commission advised Mr. Short that one-third of the levy could be taken outside the limitation. It was pointed out at the time the levy was made there was a 15-mill limitation as compared with a 10-mill limitation at present.

Mr. Short said the .6 of a mill levy that will be removed from the rate amounts to about $4,600.

City and school officials will be called in for further consideration of the rate, Mr. Short said.

BRIT BLOCKADE OF NO DANGER, HITLER CLAIMS

Germany's Harvest Safely In, Fuehrer Declares; Farmers Thanked

BERLIN, Nov. 18 — With the harvest safely in, Germany is certain to withstand the British blockade for at least another year, Chancellor Hitler indicated today. Hitler issued a proclamation thanking the farmers for completing the harvest and the winter planting, adding: "This is of decisive importance in the struggle forced on us. With God's help, food supplies for Germany will be safeguarded during the coming year."

Sailors Say Scheer Sank British Tanker

LONDON, Nov. 18 — The German pocket battleship Admiral Scheer sank the British tanker Africa Shell off Portugal's East African colony of Mozambique, a Reuters dispatch from Lourenco Marques reported today. The paper said members of the Africa Shell's crew identified the Admiral Scheer from a photograph.

After sinking the British freighter Clement off Brazil last month, the Battleship has been the quarry in a widespread search by British warships.

KILLER TO VOICE PLEA IN FIGHT AGAINST DEATH

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 — Jack Russell, Oklahoma outlaw on trial in federal court for the kidnap-slitting of William Scott Hamilton, relies chiefly on himself to escape the electric chair, it was reported today.

The defendant, it was stated, plans to testify in his own behalf when the trial is resumed Monday before a jury of seven women and five men qualified to inflict the death penalty under the Lindbergh law.

PARIS, Nov. 18 — Germany, with 1,500,000 men already understood to be massed on the Western Front, is slowly building up new military divisions, French quarters reported today. Formation of the fresh units is retarded not by the lack of men, who are plentiful, but by the fact that Germany has few available officers and non-commissioned officers, according to information in Paris.

Extreme calm was reported from the front today. Artillery and even patrol action was diminished, while the weather remained poor. A French patrol captured one German prisoner southeast of Saarbruecken, it was announced.

In spite of the reduced visibility owing to rain and fog, however, the Germans have increased their aerial activity.

HARASSED by internal difficulties in the Greater Reich, Germany nevertheless made it a point today to "show the swastika" far over allied territory to make it clear that Germany will not deviate from her resolution to carry the war to a victorious conclusion.

War activity of the Allies was concentrated on the economic side, with the creation in London of a supreme economic council to pool the purchasing power of Britain and France.

But Germany, while all the world was left wondering if Chancellor Hitler plans an offensive on the Western Front this fall, sent planes streaking across France and Britain. They dropped no bombs, but their flights were among the most daring of the war.

One plane soared 500 miles into France, reaching the Romanche Valley in the French Alps before it turned back. Others caused air raid alarms in the Lyo section in the South.

Another German bomber flew straight across the densely populated industrial districts of northern England and escaped over the Irish Sea. This was the first known occasion on which such a trip was made.

Naval Base Photoed
The British replied with a dash over Northwestern Germany, in which "an important German naval base" was photographed "despite heavy anti-aircraft fire."

To what extent the disturbances in Prague will interfere with Germany's designs in the West was unpredictable. But authentic reports said some 10,000 elite guards were massed in the former Czechoslovakian capital to preserve order after the execution yesterday of nine rebellious student leaders.

With this strong armed force in command, Prague today was reported quiet. Around 1,200 persons, most of them young students, remained in custody after 800 more had been released.

The remaining focal point of anxiety was Finland, where there is no sign that Russia is easing pressure in her campaign to force the Baltic republic to grant territorial concessions.

Welding another link in the bonds between Berlin and Moscow, according to a story in the French newspaper Paris-Sol — unconfirmed elsewhere — Germany has sent U-boats and surface warships to the Baltic.

CZECH CAPITAL QUIET; SCHOOLS DECREED CLOSED

PRAGUE, Nov. 18 — Under the firm watch of a garrison of an estimated 10,000 German elite guards, Prague today remained quiet, with no youths daring to stage new demonstrations following the execution of nine Czech students who allegedly led the recent anti-German displays.

About 1,200 students remained in custody "for questioning," out of the 2,000 rounded up in the last several days.

The Prague "clean-up" seems to have swept every corner of the former capital of Czechoslovakia, bringing into Nazi hands rebellious students as well as other subversive groups.

Outbreaks of the students began on Oct. 28, the Czech "independence day," and they were renewed Wednesday when word spread of the death of a student in prison.

Germany's firm hand clamped down on the disorders yesterday when three regiments of Hitler elite guards moved into Prague with full military equipment. Soon afterwards it was officially announced that the nine ringleaders were shot.

Famous old Prague University and other institutions of higher learning in Bohemia-Moravia were closed today under a decree banning their reopening for three years.

Elite guards occupied the Prague University, and Czech police were detailed to keep close watch over Czech newspapers.

One of Germany's flights penetrated to Lyons and other industrial cities of central and southwestern France, where air raid alarms lasted as long as 45 minutes. The planes dropped pamphlets, copies of which are en route to the ministry of war. French sources today charged that German violations of Belgian neutrality are becoming more frequent, with German planes flying over Belgium daily. Moreover, it was asserted, Reich flyers have begun soaring over Switzerland to reach French territory. Allied economic unity, established at a meeting in London yesterday, was emphasized at a session of the French council of ministers today. A communique said: "Premier Daladier revealed the diplomatic and military situation, and outlined results of the last session of the allied supreme war council. At that meeting complete accord regarding cooperation in military and economic matters was shown by the British and French governments. "So far as economic cooperation is concerned, M. Daladier stressed the happy consequences of the Franco-British accord resulting from his initiative. Notable was the decision to make common purchases abroad. "Finance Minister Paul Reynaud explained his London trip and talks with Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer. "Premier Daladier revealed the diplomatic and military situation, and outlined results of the last session of the allied supreme war council. At that meeting complete accord regarding cooperation in military and economic matters was shown by the British and French governments."

"So far as economic cooperation is concerned, M. Daladier stressed the happy consequences of the Franco-British accord resulting from his initiative. Notable was the decision to make common purchases abroad."

"Finance Minister Paul Reynaud explained his London trip and talks with Sir John Simon, British chancellor of the exchequer."

Daladier headed a delegation which flew to London for the third meeting of the war council. As a result, a supreme economic council was created.

PICKAWAY COUNTY COURT LEAGUE OPENS WITH PLAY IN FIVE SCHOOLS

N. HOLLAND AND MONROE FIGURE IN HAIR RAISERS

One Point Separates Boys And Girls, Each School Taking One Tilt

Ashville, Pickaway, Jackson On Top In Lidlifters; Two Not Scheduled

Pickaway County's Class B league teams launched their season Friday evening in play on five courts, and it remained for New Holland and Monroe to turn in the feature thriller of the evening. The opening contests brought some close scores and some high scores, several teams by virtue of their play announcing themselves as ready to contend for the league championship, which will be settled February 16 when the regular season ends.

The New Holland-Monroe thriller brought joy and sorrow to both schools because the girls' aggregation of the Bulldogs school gained a shade over the Five Points aggregation, and Byron Stoe's boys from Monroe bested Coach Rittenour's lads by a one-point margin that found its climax in the last minute of play.

Monroe led 23-22 with seconds to play when Bill Stout, Bulldog center, was bumped hard in a collision that saw a foul called on the Monroe defense man. But Stout was not able to shoot the free tosses, one of which was needed to tie and two to win. An untried reserve athlete was forced into the spot and he was unable to negotiate either.

The game was a great one with the score being tied at the half. New Holland's scoring was evenly divided and so was Monroe's. Reid and Neff, transfers from Muhlenberg, getting 13 of the winners' points.

Callahan Hits Hoop

The New Holland girls, Callahan in the starring role, gained a 22-21 advantage when the aforesaid lassie tossed a bucket, and made a free throw in the last minute to put her outfit ahead. The half was tied and Monroe led 17-24 at the third quarter.

Washington Township proved that it will be a contender when it ran up 50 points—the high mark of the evening—against Darby, comprised mostly of underclassmen. Washington's ranging boys, paced by Rife, a freshman, Matz and Elliott, scored 24 field goals on their own court. Graessle, Darby center, was best for his team.

The Darby girls, aided by the Johnson sisters, who transferred from Scioto, at guards, scored an impressive 34-14 victory in the preliminary.

Jackson Township's varsity, hit by graduation, was good enough to outlast Perry Township in the Fox Postoffice court. Bumgarner, at forward, with 14 points starred for the winners, and George, at guard, tallied 17 markers for the losers.

The Fox girls made the evening unanimous with a 26-10 edge over the Perry athletes.

the power and prove that it will be a standout despite loss of Walden, Hoover and Nance, when it counted up a 48-16 victory over Scioto at Ashville. Scioto is without the splendid aggregation that went to town last year, Beers, tall center, being the only regular back in harness. The game was a story of Ashville's splendid Junior Gregg and Barney Reese, these boys chalking up 15 field goals and three free tosses. Coach Al Kauber used his second team as did Coach Paul Hogan of Scioto.

Ashville's girls topped Scioto 34-14. Pickaway, apparently finding the guards for whom Coach Carl Burger had been hunting all fall, took Walnut's inexperienced but willing team, 37-13 on the Walnut court. The Pirate defense was so good, in fact, that it held Walnut's forwards without a goal.

George Wilson and Junior Rhodes, forward and center, aided the Pickaway cause with 22 points. Neil Brown, center, counted six for Walnut.

The Pickaway girls took Walnut by a 23-16 count. Deercreek and Saltcreek were scheduled out of the county Friday evening, their games not being reported in time for Saturday publication.

CLARKSBURG VICTOR

Clarksburg, paced by big Joe Ater, defeated Williamsport of the Pickaway County League, 42-24. Friday, in a game played on Clarksburg's new floor. Ater hit the hoop for 14 points. Williamsport reserves won 9-7.

NORTH Carolina, led by two of the finest backs in the land, George Stirnweiss and Jim (Sweet) Lalanne, is heading toward another fine season—and Duke, which it meets today, is one of the most important battles of the day. The Tarheels have gone through games with The Citadel, Wake Forest, New York U., V. P. I., Pennsylvania, North Carolina State and Davidson with all scored as victors. The only blot was a tie with Tulane, a southern powerhouse. Stirnweiss has averaged more than seven yards a try with the ball this year and Lalanne six. Both are excellent passers. Lalanne leads the team's scorers.

BILL CONN WINS OVER LESNEVICH

Young Pittsburgher Set To Enter Heavy Ranks For His Fights

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 — Billy Conn, young Pittsburgher with the Robert Taylor profile, still held the world light heavyweight championship today and his profile remained intact following his 15-round title defense against Gus Lesnevich, chunky Jerseyite, at Madison Square Garden last night. Moreover, it seems likely that he will remain the kingpin of the 175-pounders just as long as he cares to. As to that handsome Irish pan of his, it probably will begin to undergo changes much for the worse early next year, for then he is going to make a serious bid among the heavyweights.

His facial characteristics probably are not important in the broad scheme of things, except that he is by all odds the handsomest fighter in a boyish sort of way to step into the ring in many years, and therefore is something of a treat in contrast to the general run of belters. In any case, he has been fighting comparatively small men — and wait until some of those heavies begin to lay into him.

"We would like Bob Pastor as a starter," said Johnny Ray, Conn's manager today. "I'd prefer to get Pastor in a big outdoor show, but we want him anyhow — and then some more heavyweights."

That's the program to which Conn is committed partly by choice, but largely because there are no light heavyweights around capable of even making it close. Lesnevich was the best, but still couldn't win after a fast start that earned him the first four rounds in a row.

IRISH AND CATS MEET AS 50,000 CROWD STADIUM

SOUTH BEND, Nov. 18 — The edge taken off this football game at Iowa City last week was restored to razor sharpness by a capacity crowd of more than 50,000 gathered to see Notre Dame resume an old rivalry against Northwestern.

Although seldom successful, Northwestern has frequently been cast in the roll of giant killer as the fighting Irish moved toward an unbeaten season and up until last week's setback by Iowa, this 19th meeting of the two teams looked like another such battle.

Despite that 7 to 6 loss for their first of the campaign, the Notre Dame eleven is still regarded as one of the strongest teams in the country, while Northwestern with occasional burst of brilliance and its drawing card Bill Decorrevont is no mean foe.

In 18 previous meetings Notre Dame has come out on top fourteen times, but despite pre-game ratings few of the contests have been lopsided.

BUCKEYES MEET BRILLIANT FOES FROM ILLINOIS

50,000 Expected To Watch Big Ten Encounter This Afternoon

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18 — Ohio State's gridders face another big hurdle in their Western Conference title drive when they meet the high riding Fighting Illini in Ohio Stadium this afternoon.

With four Big Ten victories to their credit, the Bucks can insure themselves of at least a tie for first place in the conference race by defeating Illinois. The game will be the high spot of Ohio State's annual homecoming week end and 50,000 are anticipated.

Following are the Big Ten records of Illinois and Ohio State: Illinois 6, Indiana 7.
Illinois 0, Northwestern 13.
Illinois 16, Michigan 7.
Illinois 7, Wisconsin, 0.
Ohio State 13, Northwestern, 0.
Ohio State 23, Minnesota 20.
Ohio State 24, Indiana 0.
Ohio State 61, Chicago 0.

The Illini by virtue of successive victories over Michigan and Wisconsin the past two weeks loom as a strong possibility to give Ohio State title hopes a jolt. Illinois has kicked the Bucks into the titular ashen more times than any other team in the conference.

This has been due mainly to the acknowledged brilliance of Coach Robert C. Zupke who even in the years manages to defeat some gridiron giant. Michigan is the newest recruit to the "How Does Zupke Do It Club."

Too, there is the traditional Illinois sophomore who at least once a season sets the football world on its ear. This year it is Jim Smith who has led the Illini to their two conference victories. No one has claimed that Smith is another Grange or another Harley, however, both of these former stars found the Illinois-Ohio State game a good springboard to national prominence. Smith too may find this game to his liking.

Buckeyes In Lead

Zup has sent 25 Illinois teams against Ohio State. The Bucks have won 13 and the lads from Champaign 11. One game ended 3 to 3. The Illini held a pretty good edge over the Scarlet until Francis A. Schmidt took over the head coaching spot here. Schmidt has sent five teams against Zupke and four of them have been winners; however, it was Illinois' 14 to 13 win in 1934 that revived Ohio State of a conference championship.

Since 1914, the first season of official conference competition for Ohio State, the Bucks have won three Big Ten titles and tied for a fourth while during the same period, Illinois has won five clear titles and tied for a sixth. The 37 to 0 victory of Illinois in 1914 remains the biggest score the Bucks have lost by since 1914.

BILL CONN WINS OVER LESNEVICH

Young Pittsburgher Set To Enter Heavy Ranks For His Fights

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 — Billy Conn, young Pittsburgher with the Robert Taylor profile, still held the world light heavyweight championship today and his profile remained intact following his 15-round title defense against Gus Lesnevich, chunky Jerseyite, at Madison Square Garden last night. Moreover, it seems likely that he will remain the kingpin of the 175-pounders just as long as he cares to. As to that handsome Irish pan of his, it probably will begin to undergo changes much for the worse early next year, for then he is going to make a serious bid among the heavyweights.

His facial characteristics probably are not important in the broad scheme of things, except that he is by all odds the handsomest fighter in a boyish sort of way to step into the ring in many years, and therefore is something of a treat in contrast to the general run of belters. In any case, he has been fighting comparatively small men — and wait until some of those heavies begin to lay into him.

"We would like Bob Pastor as a starter," said Johnny Ray, Conn's manager today. "I'd prefer to get Pastor in a big outdoor show, but we want him anyhow — and then some more heavyweights."

That's the program to which Conn is committed partly by choice, but largely because there are no light heavyweights around capable of even making it close. Lesnevich was the best, but still couldn't win after a fast start that earned him the first four rounds in a row.

IRISH AND CATS MEET AS 50,000 CROWD STADIUM

SOUTH BEND, Nov. 18 — The edge taken off this football game at Iowa City last week was restored to razor sharpness by a capacity crowd of more than 50,000 gathered to see Notre Dame resume an old rivalry against Northwestern.

Although seldom successful, Northwestern has frequently been cast in the role of giant killer as the fighting Irish moved toward an unbeaten season and up until last week's setback by Iowa, this 19th meeting of the two teams looked like another such battle.

Despite that 7 to 6 loss for their first of the campaign, the Notre Dame eleven is still regarded as one of the strongest teams in the country, while Northwestern with occasional burst of brilliance and its drawing card Bill Decorrevont is no mean foe.

In 18 previous meetings Notre Dame has come out on top fourteen times, but despite pre-game ratings few of the contests have been lopsided.

BUCKEYES MEET BRILLIANT FOES FROM ILLINOIS

50,000 Expected To Watch Big Ten Encounter This Afternoon

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18 — Ohio State's gridders face another big hurdle in their Western Conference title drive when they meet the high riding Fighting Illini in Ohio Stadium this afternoon.

With four Big Ten victories to their credit, the Bucks can insure themselves of at least a tie for first place in the conference race by defeating Illinois. The game will be the high spot of Ohio State's annual homecoming week end and 50,000 are anticipated.

Following are the Big Ten records of Illinois and Ohio State:

Illinois 6, Indiana 7.
Illinois 0, Northwestern 13.
Illinois 16, Michigan 7.
Illinois 7, Wisconsin 0.
Ohio State 13, Northwestern 0.
Ohio State 23, Minnesota 20.
Ohio State 24, Indiana 0.
Ohio State 61, Chicago 0.

The Illini by virtue of successive victories over Michigan and Wisconsin the past two weeks loom as a strong possibility to give Ohio State title hopes a jolt. Illinois has kicked the Bucks into the titular ashen more times than any other team in the conference. This has been due mainly to the acknowledged brilliance of Coach Robert C. Zuppke who even in the years manages to defeat some gridiron giant. Michigan is the newest recruit to the "How Does Zuppke Do It Club."

Too, there is the traditional Illinois sophomore who at least once a season sets the football world on its ear. This year it is Jim Smith who has led the Illini to their two conference victories. No one has claimed that Smith is an other Grange or another Harley, however, both of these former stars found the Illinois-Ohio State game a good springboard to national prominence. Smith too may find this game to his liking.

Buckeyes In Lead

Zup has sent 25 Illinois teams against Ohio State. The Bucks have won 13 and the lads from Champaign 11. One game ended 3 to 3. The Illini held a pretty good edge over the Scarlet until Francis A. Schmidt took over the head coaching spot here. Schmidt has sent five teams against Zuppke and four of them have been winners; however, it was Illinois' 14 to 13 win in 1934 that revived Ohio State of a conference championship.

Since 1914, the first season of official conference competition for Ohio State, the Bucks have won three Big Ten titles and tied for a fourth while during the same period, Illinois has won five clear titles and tied for a sixth. The 37 to 0 victory of Illinois in 1914 remains the biggest score the Bucks have lost by since 1914.

Warnings and Promises

Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 7.

Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?

If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father give good things to them that ask Him?

Broad is the way that leadeth to destruction: but strait is the gate and narrow the way that leadeth to eternal life. (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 6:31)

Preachers Preparing For Confab

Preparations are in full swing for the annual Ohio Pastors' Convention, which will hold its twenty-first session in Columbus, January 29 to February 1.

The Rev. C. F. Bowman represents the local ministerial association on the committee in charge of arrangements for the statewide convention, which each year attracts several hundred clergymen for a fellowship gathering and discussion of common problems.

Mr. Bowman expressed the hope that local ministers will begin at once to make plans for attendance at the coming convention. By combining in local groups to motor together to Columbus and by taking advantage of special hotel rates that are available for such groups, the expense can be kept at a minimum, he pointed out.

The program partially arranged includes such nationally noted religious leaders as Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr of New York, Dr. Hornell Hart, Duke University, Dr. Sherwood Eddy, New York, and Rabbi Samuel Goldenson, New York.

Tentative arrangements for the completion of the program of addresses and discussions, made at the committee meeting Monday, were greeted by leaders as giving promise of a convention that will provide inspiration and practical help for the coming year's work to every pastor in Ohio. During its 21 years of existence, the Pastors' Convention has been an important factor in developing an increased spirit of unity among the Protestant denominations.

Warnings and Promises

Judge not, that ye be not judged. For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Matthew 7.

Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone? Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?

If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father give good things to them that ask Him?

Broad is the way that leadeth to destruction; but strait is the gate and narrow the way that leadeth to eternal life. (GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 6:31)

Preachers Preparing For Confab

Preparations are in full swing for the annual Ohio Pastors' Convention, which will hold its twenty-first session in Columbus, January 29 to February 1.

The Rev. C. F. Bowman represents the local ministerial association on the committee in charge of arrangements for the state-wide convention, which each year attracts several hundred clergymen of the Protestant churches for a fellowship gathering and discussion of common problems.

Mr. Bowman expressed the hope that local ministers will begin at once to make plans for attendance at the coming convention. By combining in local groups to motor together to Columbus and by taking advantage of special hotel rates that are available for such groups, the expense can be kept at a minimum, he pointed out.

The program partially arranged includes such nationally noted religious leaders as Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr of New York, Dr. Horrell Hart, Duke University, Dr. Sherwood Eddy, New York, and Rabbi Samuel Goldenson, New York.

Tentative arrangements for the completion of the program of addresses and discussions, made at the committee meeting Monday, were greeted by leaders as giving promise of a convention that will provide inspiration and practical help for the coming year's work to every pastor in Ohio. During its 21 years of existence, the Pastors' Convention has been an important factor in developing an increased spirit of unity among the Protestant denominations.

WEST INDIES FOR DEBT

WHETHER this is a practical suggestion is hard to say, but at least the proposal that Great Britain and France give the United States their West Indian possessions in payment of their war debts is very interesting. And if the present European war became a long and exhausting struggle, and Uncle Sam approved and persevered in the idea, something might come of it.

Immediate interest is aroused by a Gallup poll which indicates that two-thirds of the American people would welcome such a deal. The next step, if there were one, might be to present the same proposal to the British and French public. It might be resented, and would almost certainly be turned down at first, but at least the discussion would be interesting. The rich island of Jamaica is the largest of the group in question. Along with our present possession of Puerto Rico, it would be an extra safeguard for the Panama Canal and would extend our protective power in this hemisphere. The other islands in that vast archipelago run into the hundreds, and many are of little or no value. Most Americans would be interested especially in Bermuda, an outpost of the Bahama group, if it were included.

All this, perhaps, is a vain dream. The hardest thing for nations to give up, after their lives, is their real estate; and the British, a seafaring insular race, dearly love islands.

QUEER VACATION TIME

AN Ohioan looking through old newspaper files to see what people were doing 100 years ago was surprised to find that in 1840 the children had to go to school in midsummer. A letter to the editor, though, protested against the system. The objecting citizen wrote:

"I think they err in not having a vacation during a part of the hot season. As now managed, there is a vacation of four or five weeks commencing the last of March, and another of five or six weeks from the first of October. Presuming they have decided that two vacations are better than three, I would inquire why not have one, at any rate, in the month of August, when, if ever, mind and body need relaxation? It seems as if studies should be pursued instead of vacated during the bracing months of October and November, and that during dog days there should be a cessation."

Very likely the boys and girls agreed with him about midsummer, at least. No explanation is given of the reason for the double spring and fall vacation, but very

WORLD AT A GLANCE

WHY HAS tenant farming increased so rapidly in the United States in recent years? Three or four decades ago, when one spoke of an American farmer, he meant the owner of a farm—not a renter or share-cropper; in effect, a peasant, of the European sort. Today our farm tendency is on a 42 percent basis. Moreover, our farm population has been shrinking. In 1920 we had 30 percent of Americans on the land. Now it's only 25 percent. The others have been driven into the cities, to compete with urban labor—of which we have a decided surplus, as per our unemployment statistics.

Senator Henrik Shipstead offers an explanation. I had occasion to quote the Minnesota solon the other day on the subject of our competition with other agricultural countries. However, this theme is different. I scooped the two stories in at the same time. And again I quote the Minnesota solon because he's about the best farm authority in congress. Maybe it's queer that a dentist should be so, but he is. "We have had," says the senator, "six years in which to test out the theory that the less we produce (governmental crop limitations) and the fewer farmers we have, the more wealthy we shall be."

"The contrary has been proved, of which there's evidence a plenty."

FEEDING THE WORLD

"During the last war period the American farmer was told that he must feed the world, and he did. He didn't have the necessary cash, but he borrowed it from banks. They were short-term loans."

"Then came the post-war crash. The banks had to have their money. So the farmers were induced to mortgage their land to bail out the bankers. The War Finance and Farm Mortgage corporations were federally created to enable them to do so."

"It worked, as to the banks. But the farmers presently began to find themselves being sold out under mortgage foreclosures. Officialdom points with pride to the fact that our farm mortgage indebtedness has been greatly reduced. It's true. It's been reduced by $2,400,000,000. How has it been reduced, though? It's been reduced by depriving the farmer of his home and land, and transforming him into a tenant or chasing him into the city."

FIGURES! CAN THEY LIE?

"In 1910 our total farm mortgage debt was $3,300,000,000. It amounted to less than 10 percent of what all our farm lands and buildings were valued at. The

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

HOOVER WAGING CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON—Some Republican politicians have been worried over the recent political energy of Herbert Hoover. Although his friends say he is not a candidate, he exhibits all the earmarks of running in 1940.

He is definitely concentrating on securing control of the California delegation to the Republican National Convention, and he has been indefatigable in traveling around the country visiting editors and politicians even in the smallest towns.

All of this was the subject of discussion between two Republican leaders, Alexander Smith of Trenton, N. J., and Ronald Bridges, brother of New Hampshire's Senator Bridges, who is an active Republican candidate.

Ronald Bridges asserted that Hoover's activity was confusing to the party and that the ex-President owed it to the other candidates to make clear his position in regard to 1940. So it was suggested that they point this out to Mr. Hoover in a friendly way.

Smith phoned to New York, where Mr. Hoover was visiting, and they saw him next day.

NERVOUS BRIDGES

Ronald Bridges opened up the conversation, but was a little nervous about it. After some hemming and hawing, however, he finally conveyed the idea that many Republicans hoped Mr. Hoover would clarify his position about running again.

Mr. Hoover, meanwhile, had eyed Mr. Bridges with complete lack of enthusiasm. Finally, he said:

"Young man, did you come here to tell me that I should repeat General Sherman's famous remark?"

Bridges replied in the affirmative. Whereupon the ex-President launched into a long exposition of how he planned to dominate the 1940 election—not for himself, but in order to influence the platform and pick a candidate who would vindicate his administration. He indicated that he was deeply humiliated because the Republican Party had not supported his policies more definitely, and made it absolutely clear that the next Republican candidate could not run on a "repudiate Hoover" ticket.

HOOVER AND CANDIDATES

Hoover also went over the list of available Republican candidates and spoke rather disparagingly of several. He had no use for Landon, Hamilton or Vandenberg. Regarding the latter he said: "Well, I hate to talk about him for fear he might be our candidate."

"I am looking over some of these new Republican governors," Hoover explained. "I don't think the Senate provides a good spring-board for the nomination—and I likely the idea was to let the children help with the spring planting and fall reaping.

The Fuehrer's dream-world seems to be going to pieces not only under his feet, but in his head.

Device To Measure Pain Now Needed

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I HAVE several times suggested that an instrument which the medical profession needs very much is an esthiometer, which would measure pain as a thermometer measures temperature.

Pain is the most frequent symptom which brings a patient to his physician, but the physician has no way of measuring the amount of pain. He has to take the patient's word for it. Some patients are likely to exaggerate and some are likely to minimize their pain.

Dr. Charles Mayo used to have a story of a young man who demoralized the medical profession in a village by sending a man, coached for the part, around to pose as a patient. To the first doctor he went to see he described exactly the symptoms of ulcer of the stomach. The doctor made an examination, but since there was no way to check an ulcer history exactly he told the man he had an ulcer of the stomach. The pseudo-patient asked him to write this opinion out, which he did. He then went to doctor No. 2 and described the symptoms of gallstones. Doctor No. 2 gave him a written certificate that he had gallstones. Then he went to doctor No. 3 and described exactly the symptoms of a kidney stone, and doctor No. 3 gave him a certificate saying that he had a kidney stone. Then he attached his photograph to each of these opinions and took them around to the three doctors, showing it was the same man with three opinions, and threatened a suit.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

What It May Reveal

I have even projected a little romance about the esthiometer by suggesting what the effect would be on such a village. It would probably be found that the chronic sufferer who had "the worst headache in the world" would have practically no pain at all, while the poor woman who was supporting a family by taking in washing would really have the worst pain.

A new device, invented by Dr. Edward Hollander, is a gauge for pain sensitivity. It is used in connection with a blood pressure gauge. A small elliptical metal grater is fitted inside the blood pressure cuff. The cuff is inflated slowly and as the pressure is increased the prongs of the grater indent but do not puncture the skin. When the grater causes the patient to wince, the blood pressure reading is taken.

In examining a large group of patients, it was found that 27 percent were hypersensitive to pain, 29 percent had a lower threshold for pain sensitivity, while about 44 percent were normal in that they winced at the pressure of the grater at about the level of 120 mm. of mercury.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. V.: "Does 100% bran breakfast cereal have any bad effects on the bowel? And does it help constipation?"

Answer: Bran is irritating to some people. It causes colic, cramps and colitis. In most people, however, it is beneficial for constipation.

J. R. B.: "What is the vitamin value of a 12-ounce bottle of beer—the Kansas kind?"

Answer: None. There may be a trace of vitamin B in beer—I am guessing. I don't know—but it is negligible. Kansas or any other kind. If you want vitamins, stay away from alcohol.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
FABIENNE SEYMOUR, rich, young and beautiful.
NICKY BARTLETT, wealthy and in love with Fabienne.
YESTERDAY: Gertrude, Fabienne's ambitious mother, is distraught when she learns that Grandfather Bill Willoughby leaves his entire fortune to charity.

CHAPTER TWO

"PERFECT" entrance," Fabienne whispered to no one in particular when Nicky Bartlett came into the drawing room.

His smile, beneath his neat mustache, was a blend of anticipation and realized pleasure. His eyes included all of them as he went directly to Gertrude de Ligne and bent over her hand. Rising, he spoke to Edna Willoughby, gave his hand to Mark and then to Dick and came to stand beside Fabienne, as if that were his place.

She said "Hi, feller, how'd you know this was the psychological moment to arrive?"

He snapped open a paper-thin gold cigarette case and held it out to her. "Something exciting going on?"

Fabienne took a long time over lighting her cigaret from his lighter. Then she blew a straight smoky column before she answered: "We've been cut off without a sou. Or haven't you read the papers today?"

"Oh, THAT." Yes, Nicky did things well. Nicky did things in the good taste that Gertrude talked so much about, without always being quite sure of what she meant. Gertrude often got form mixed up with taste.

"We can't believe it, Nicky," Gertrude said pathetically.

"Should I offer condolences?" His question was for Gertrude, but his glance was to Fabienne.

"Not at all," she answered before her mother could speak. "We're all going to make something of ourselves. A nice fresh start with no filthy lucre to tie us down. We're going to work. Dick and me."

"Isn't she droll, Nicky? Darling, it's getting on toward seven. Hadn't you better dress for dinner?"

"Why, mother! Poor folk don't dress for dinner. However, I'll get cleaned up. Played some good tennis today, Nicky, with Sue Auchincloss." Fabienne aimed neatly at the hearth with her cigaret and made it. "I'll put on something dance-ish if you'll take me to the Fete Tabarin tonight, Nicky."

"Last flare before she becomes one of the working masses," Dick explained.

"She's not serious about working, is she?" Nicky wanted to know after Fabienne had left the room.

"Of course not. She's piqued with me because I'm solicitous about her. I want her to get married, Nicky, and I know she wants to. I think the child's romantic. I think she wants to be swept off her feet." Gertrude paused for a moment and then abruptly said something about that day's polo. She hoped that Nicky had taken the hint she had put rather baldly.

After all, it was time that Nicky stopped allowing Fabienne to twist him around her finger. He had been courting Fabienne for—Gertrude calculated hastily—twelve years. Ever since the summer she had taken the child to Maryland to visit her dead father's parents. They were only twelve and sixteen then, but already Nicky had been browbeaten by her own willful daughter.

Marcus came in with a tray of cocktails. "Nicky, do you know the Prochets? They gave a most amusing party on Monday . . ." Gertrude chatted amiably as if she had not spent the past seven hours in storms of tears and anger. Now that Nicky was there everything would be quite all right.

Fabienne said to her brother, "Come and see me when I take a walk-up."

Yes, Nicky would know the Prochets. He knew all the right people, the right tailors, the most dependable brokers, the rating of every club worth while. To know and do the right things was Nicky's whole life. He had never done a day's work in all his twenty-eight years. But there had been no need of it; he was the heir to the Bartlett tobacco millions.

Fabienne was a fool not to grab him. "My daughter, Mrs. Nicholas Bartlett," the Countesse de Ligne would say in the drawing rooms of London and Paris that still knew her.

Fabienne came in wearing something sleek in ice-blue satin that made her look a head taller than Nicky.

"Doesn't she look sweet?" her mother said fondly.

"An awfully good buy, Nicky. Reduced today," Fabienne said, and her voice took on a hard edge that was like the hard light in her eyes earlier.

"Cocktail, dear? We'll have dinner in a few minutes."

"No, thanks, Nicky's taking me out to dinner." She didn't want to stay another minute. She knew all the things her mother would say for Nicky's benefit. Accumulated anger gathered in her breast.

She said goodby to them all, kissed her uncle and aunt and said to her brother, "Give my best to John Harvard and come and see me when I take a walk-up."

Nicky had a car that was, as one might suppose, long and sleek and as expensive as possible. Which was hardly the basis of any objection to Fabienne Seymour who preferred the luxuries.

Fabienne belonged in that car, she thought approvingly. She looked the part. Her slippers had cost thirty dollars; her gown, simple and arresting as an exclamation point, was a French original and her short jacket of perfectly matched sables had been last year's Christmas present to herself from herself with love.

Nicky looked as if he belonged in that car, too. But then Nicky always looked right—at the tiller of his sailboat, in his pink coat at the Hunt, Breakfast, riding steeplechase, playing fast polo, flying his speed plane.

She could have this car, and a town car, and a plane of her own if she wished. She'd always look right amid the possessions that Nicky could give her, and Nicky was waiting for her to say that she'd take them—and him.

Why didn't she say it? Her mother was right. There was nothing else for her but marriage. She'd loathe working. Besides, what could she do? She couldn't sing in a night club. She wouldn't sell things. She was utterly useless as far as earning any money went. And she'd have to have money. Five hundred a month would be little better than nothing after Gertrude closed the apartment and went back to Paris. She'd have to take on an apartment for herself. Nicky said, "What's all this about 'making something of yourself'?"

"Oh, so you think it's too amusing, do you?" She said it sharply, her resentment against everything finding its expression against luckless Nicky.

"Ridiculous, not amusing," he corrected, unfortunately choosing the one word that was a red flag to her.

"Well, you know my views about such things. We've discussed them before—if you remember."

He ducked as if her words were blows. "Are you going to start that line about my going to work again? Because if you are, my good girl, I'll only bore you by saying the same things over again. I've got plenty of money and plenty of time and plenty to do with both. Would you want me to take a job that some poor guy needs?"

"Couldn't you find a job to make for yourself? Make something useful of yourself instead of being a . . . a playboy?"

"I might do social work," he said laughingly. "It was the way he laughed that added fuel to the fire kindled by her mother. It blazed, and suddenly she thought she knew a way to make her mother know how deep her resentment was."

The idea was born. Fabienne gloated over it gleefully.

"Look, Nicky," she said in a tone that indicated her annoyance with him was forgotten. "I've got an idea playing around in the back of my mind. I want to scare mother. Will you drive me down to Willoughby house in the morning?"

Fabienne little knew what a sweeping tide that wavelet of an idea was to prove.

Varied Program Offered For Gathering

An interesting achievement program, presented by the Wayne Girls' Clothing Club and the Boys' Pig Club, was enjoyed by 120 guests at the Friday meeting of Wayne Parent-Teacher Association, in the school auditorium.

Following a brief business session in charge of Mrs. J. Beryl Stevenson, president, the audience joined in singing "America the Beautiful". Thomas Downing then talked briefly concerning the officers and leaders conference. William Barthelmas, leader of the Boys' Club, outlined the plans for the next year.

A candle lighting ceremony, in which members of both clubs participated, completed the program. F. K. Blair, county extension agent, after a short talk presented the Pumpkin Show awards.

Women's Social Club

One of the most interesting programs of the year was presented Friday at the meeting of the Women's Social Club of the Presbyterian Church, when Mack E. Noggle spoke on "Color in the Commonplace." He spoke of the beauty which we recognize in things more readily through the eye of the camera, showing the marvel of color which we should train ourselves to observe.

He showed color slides of many scenes near Circleville, at the Rockhouse, Ash Cave, Devil's Backbone, the Ridge Road and Tar Hollow, some of which were taken two or three times to show the color at different seasons.

He arranged his slides to show a complete year cycle of scenes, showing how even in the winter scenes, which we speak of as "drab," there is color if we see it. The lovely pictures of trees, flowers, shrubs, gardens and doorways were breath taking in their beauty.

Mrs. G. G. Campbell led the business and devotional hour, group singing of "America" opening the meeting.

Mrs. Leland Pontius, secretary, read her report and also read the report of the treasurer. After prayer by the president, Mrs. E. E. Porter discussed the Thanksgiving season telling many pertinent facts concerning its inception and observance. She read Governor Bradford's proclamation, when he set the first Thanksgiving Day in America in 1621, and also the first prepared by George Washington. She closed her talk with a delightful poem.

It was decided that club members would take donations of jams, jellies, canned fruits and vegetables to the next meeting, December 15, to be given to the Benevolent Association for the Christmas baskets.

Light refreshments were served from a table centered with a basket of seasonable fruit and pine cones, and lighted with orange tapers.

Members of the hospitality committee were Mrs. Orin W. Dreisbach, Mrs. Eva Dreisbach, Mrs. S. B. Chambers, Mrs. Ruth Fickard, Mrs. Ray Davis, Mrs. Charles Dreisbach, Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, Mrs. Walter Downing, Mrs. W. C. Kochheiser, Mrs. Franklin Crites, Mrs. G. H. Merry-Makers' Club

An unusually large attendance marked the meeting of the Merry-Makers' Club of the Order of the Eastern Star when it met Friday at the home of Mrs. O. J. Towers, East Union Street. Forty members and 10 visitors enjoyed the afternoon.

Plans were completed for purchasing and dressing dolls for the holidays at the business hour led by Mrs. Sam Morris, president. The annual election of officers was postponed until the next session because of the large number of visitors.

Mrs. Charles Dreisbach and Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer sang a duet, Mrs. George Bentley played a piano solo and Mrs. Reichelder-

MARTIN ROSHOLT SPEAKS ON SINO-JAPANESE WAR

Martin Rosholt, war correspondent and world traveler, was the assembly speaker Tuesday morning at 8:30. Mr. Rosholt was in China during part of the war between China and Japan and thus was able to give many first-hand impressions and viewpoints on this war.

He stated that the rivalry between these two Oriental countries began more than five hundred years ago, when Japanese pirates first discovered some of the wonders and resources of China.

Mr. Rosholt outlined briefly the history of Japan and pointed out that she has been trying to seize Chinese territory ever since the sixteenth century. Her most threatening invasions all were made since she became Westernized after Admiral Peary's visit there.

He stressed the fact that although many well-informed people have blamed the actual outbreak of war upon munitions makers and capitalists, it is his belief through long association with the Japanese people that it cannot be explained in this way. He said that Japan has "an irresistible urge to conquer China. . . . a five hundred-year-old dream" and that they must win the war.

"And," stated Mr. Rosholt, "they are winning the war. China has already lost fully one-third of her territory."

He explained that the outcome of the war is vital to every country in the world in an economic way. Japan, with her own factories and scientists and the immense wealth and resources, as well as the very cheap labor of China, could flood the world with goods so cheap that no one could compete with her.

That Japan and the United States are the only two undefeated nations in the world he stated as a significant fact. He added that by our present policy we are aiding Japan, and suggested that we place an embargo on all war materials to Japan, including arms, ammunition, cotton, and oil.

Mr. Rosholt concluded his talk by saying, "If we go on as we are now, we will defeat our own destiny in the Pacific."

After the main part of his talk, he showed moving pictures taken by himself and friends who are newspaper cameramen. Most of these pictures were taken in and near Shanghai, China and depicted many war scenes.

This was the third in the series of assemblies furnished by the National Program Service.

CLUB MEMBERS NAME DELEGATES

At the eighth regular meeting of the Hi-Y club, last Wednesday evening, the boys decided to send three seniors, one junior, President Hitchcock and club adviser Thomas Armstrong to the annual district Hi-Y meeting at Massillon, Ohio, Ralph Schumm, treasurer, was asked to draw three names from a hat. The members thus selected to attend the meeting are Marshal Cupp, Abner Griffee, David Eagleson and Jack Imler.

New members received their pins and emblems. Old members wanting pins and emblems were advised to give their order to the secretary.

After the regular business was over the remainder of the evening was spent in a contest with the sophomores and juniors competing against the seniors. William Burget conducted the contest which was in the form of the radio program "What's My Name?" The seniors were defeated.

Meeting adjourned at 9:00 o'clock.

STOOGES TO BUY COMPLETE SUITS

At the regular meeting of the Stooge Club Tuesday evening, it was finally decided that the club would buy the entire suits for the team, rather than just the pants and knee length stockings as previously stated. The suits will include pants, shirt, knee pads, and knee length stockings.

This year, season tickets for home basketball games will be sold by the Stooge Club. A meeting of the Stooge members and their Stooge Dads will be held before the season starts. No definite date has been set for the meeting.

STALEY POSES FOR GROUP

Paul Staley posed for the Pencil and Brush at their weekly meeting Wednesday afternoon.

QUIBBLE—GOBBLE

Thanksgiving day, when, where, and how?

In answering the first interrogation, we find ourselves debating as to whether to hold this day of thanksgiving on the twenty-third or the thirtieth.

You will probably hear a lot of gobbling on this question as far as the turkeys are concerned. If we hold it the twenty-third it will cut MR. TURKEY's life shorter by a week.

Where shall we hold it? Perhaps at grandpa Smith's as a reunion, but no on second thought, sister Mary, granddaddy John and aunt Sue can't be there. Now what shall we do? Perhaps the solution is to abolish these extravagant extravaganzas and enjoy a nice quiet well balanced dinner at home.

In what manner shall we observe Thanksgiving day? On this day we should all give our thanks for the many things we have received. All of us have something to be thankful for.

E. M. S. CONDUCTS INITIAL MEETING

Reading of the minutes, a treasurer's report, and roll call, Wednesday evening, opened the first regular meeting of this year for the E. M. S.

During the business session, Mary Kathryn Pile read the club's constitution, and a discussion of its contents was held. It was voted that the meeting date be bi-monthly on Wednesday evening.

The club's project for the year shall be to produce some original work in newspaper form. Also it was made an unwritten law that no member shall be allowed to remain in E. M. S. if he has more than two unexcused absences. If anyone finds it impossible to attend a meeting, he will hand a written excuse to a committee, composed of the cabinet, which will determine whether his absence is excusable.

Miss Margaret Rooney, adviser, asked that the chairman of the program divisions meet and draw up a schedule for the next four meetings.

President Paul Turner appointed Sam Stubbs, chairman, and Pollyanna Friedman, Marilyn Lutz and Leland Siegwald a committee to investigate the price of club pins.

For the program, the drama division presented a play "Out in the Clearing," by Mrs. Richard Jones and directed by Lloyd Jones. The characters were portrayed by Norma Brown, William Burget, Pollyanna Friedman, Rose Anne Griner, Lloyd Jones, Mary Adele Snider and Sam Stubbs.

Following this production, there was a discussion, and it was suggested that the drama division's next presentation be something with a modern setting.

In two weeks, the non-fiction group will present a program of essays. Club members are asked to bring original work.

EDITORIAL: THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is here again, but how many of us know what the word "Thanksgiving" means? Thanksgiving day was originated in America in the New England states.

After the first harvest of the colonists in 1621, Governor Bradford designated a day for thanksgiving and prayer. In 1623, a day of fasting prayer, in the midst of a drought, was changed into thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers. Gradually, the custom was adopted annually after every harvest.

Following the Revolution, a day of national thanksgiving was annually recommended by Congress. Since 1864, the President of the United States has designated the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving day, and his proclamation has generally been followed throughout the states. This year the President has set Thanksgiving a week. We have special reasons for the celebration of Thanksgiving this year.

All of us should be thankful that our country is not at war. It seems to us here in America that people in Europe have little to be thankful for. Here, our country is still at peace and our borders are not in danger. We should be everlastingly thankful for our freedom—a freedom such as the peoples of no other country enjoy.

WBNS CONDUCTS INTERCOLLEGIATE CONTEST SERIES

November 4, was the first in a series of intercollegiate debates conducted over WBNS. These are being sponsored by the Department of Speech at Capital University. The debates are being held on Saturday mornings from 11:05 to 11:45.

There are nine debates and the subjects are questions concerning problems of political science and economy.

Circleville high debaters will be especially interested in the debate to be held January 18. At this time, Kent, affirmative and Oberlin, negative will battle on the national high school debate question—"Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Own and Operate the Railroads." At this contest Professor Drushal will act as chairman and Dr. Moses as judge.

This information was sent to debate instructor, Samuel R. Johnson by W. C. Craig, chairman of the Department of Speech, at Capital.

Mr. Craig said in his letter that the response to the first of these was so gratifying that it has been deemed advisable to send out information concerning the debates to high schools conducting active mixed forensic programs.

These debates form a portion of an intercollegiate radio debate tournament.

MEMBERS STUDY HISTORICAL WORK

Homor Anderson and Norma Brown were in charge of the program at the Poetry Club meeting, Friday afternoon. The topic of discussion was historical ballads. Examples of this type of poetry were read by members of the committee. A short historical background was given for each poem.

Norma read ballads by English authors—among them, "The Lady of Shallot," by Tennyson and "A Ballad of Francois Villon," by Swinburne, Homor chose American historical ballads and read Longfellow's "Ride of Paul Revere" and Holmes' "Wonderful One-Hoss Shay."

During the business session Mary Kathryn Pile, chairman of the initiation committee, gave a report on their plans. They reported that the initiation will be held in two weeks. A definite date will be announced later.

Since the initiates' probationary period ended this week, the club voted who should be accepted as members. Those chosen were Homor Anderson, Norma Jean Betts, Miriam Brown, Barbara Caskey, Iona Quince, Dorothy Reid and Harriet Walters.

Women's Social Club

One of the most interesting programs of the year was presented Friday at the meeting of the Women's Social Club of the Presbyterian Church, when Mack E. Noggle spoke on "Color in the Commonplace." He spoke of the beauty which we recognize in things more readily through the eye of the camera, showing the marvel of color which we should train ourselves to observe.

He showed color slides of many scenes near Circleville, at the Rockhouse, Ash Cave, Devil's Backbone, the Ridge Road and Tar Hollow, some of which were taken two or three times to show the color at different seasons.

He arranged his slides to show a complete year cycle of scenes, showing how even in the winter scenes, which we speak of as "drab," there is color if we see it. The lovely pictures of trees, flowers, shrubs, gardens and dooryards were breath taking in their beauty.

Mrs. G. G. Campbell led the business and devotional hour, group singing of "America" opening the meeting.

Mrs. Leland Pontius, secretary, read her report and also read the report of the treasurer. After prayer by the president, Mrs. E. E. Porter discussed the Thanksgiving season telling many pertinent facts concerning its inception and observance. She read Governor Bradford's proclamation, when he set the first Thanksgiving Day in America in 1621, and also the first prepared by George Washington. She closed her talk with a delightful poem.

It was decided that club members would take donations of jams, jellies, canned fruits and vegetables to the next meeting, December 15, to be given to the Benevolent Association for the Christmas baskets.

Light refreshments were served from a table centered with a basket of seasonal fruit and pine cones, and lighted with orange tapers.

Members of the hospitality committee were Mrs. Orin W. Dreisbach, Mrs. Eva Dreisbach, Mrs. S. B. Chambers, Mrs. Ruth Fickard, Mrs. Ray Davis, Mrs. Charles Dreisbach, Mrs. Marvin Dreisbach, Mrs. Walter Downing, Mrs. W. C. Kochheiser, Mrs. Franklin Crites, Mrs. G. H. Reading of the minutes, a treasurer's report, and roll call. Wednesday evening, opened the first regular meeting of this year for the E. M. S.

During the business session, Mary Kathryn Pile read the club's constitution, and a discussion of its contents was held. It was voted that the meeting date be bi-monthly on Wednesday evening. The club's project for the year shall be to produce some original work in newspaper form.

Also it was made an unwritten law that no member shall be allowed to remain in E. M. S. if he has more than two unexcused absences. If anyone finds it impossible to attend a meeting, he will hand a written excuse to a committee, composed of the cabinet, which will determine whether his absence is excusable.

Miss Margaret Rooney, adviser, asked that the chairmen of the program divisions meet and draw up a schedule for the next four meetings.

President Paul Turner appointed Sam Stubbs, chairman, and Pollyanna Friedman, Marilyn Lutz and Leland Siegwald a committee to investigate the price of club pins.

For the program, the drama division presented a play "Out in the Clearing", by Mrs. Richard Jones and directed by Lloyd Jones. The characters were portrayed by Norma Brown, William Burget, Pollyanna Friedman, Rose Anne Griner, Lloyd Jones, Mary Lutz, Leland Siegwald, Mary Adele Snider and Sam Stubbs.

Following this production, there was a discussion, and it was suggested that the drama division's next presentation be something with a modern setting.

In two weeks, the non-fiction group will present a program of essays. Club members are asked to bring original work.

EDITORIAL: THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving is here again, but how many of us know what the word "Thanksgiving" means? Thanksgiving day was originated in America in the New England states.

After the first harvest of the colonists in 1621, Governor Bradford designated a day for thanksgiving and prayer. In 1623, a day of fasting prayer, in the midst of a drought, was changed into thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers. Gradually, the custom was adopted annually after every harvest.

Following the Revolution, a day of national thanksgiving was annually recommended by Congress. Since 1864, the President of the United States has designated the last Thursday in November as Thanksgiving day, and his proclamation has generally been followed throughout the states. This year the President has set Thanksgiving up a week. We have special reasons for the celebration of Thanksgiving this year.

All of us should be thankful that our country is not at war. It seems to us here in America that people in Europe have little to be thankful for. Here, our country is still at peace and our borders are not in danger. We should be everlastingly thankful for our freedom—a freedom such as the peoples of no other country enjoy.

WBNS CONDUCTS INTERCOLLEGIATE CONTEST SERIES

November 4, was the first in a series of intercollegiate debates conducted over WBNS. These are being sponsored by the Department of Speech at Capital University. The debates are being held on Saturday mornings from 11:05 to 11:45.

There are nine debates and the subjects are questions concerning problems of political science and economy.

Circleville high debaters will be especially interested in the debate to be held January 18. At this time, Kent, affirmative and Oberlin, negative will battle on the national high school debate question—"Resolved: That the Federal Government Should Own and Operate the Railroads." At this contest Professor Drushal will act as chairman and Dr. Moses as judge.

This information was sent to debate instructor, Samuel R. Johnson by W. C. Craig, chairman of the Department of Speech, at Capital.

Mr. Craig said in his letter that the response to the first of these was so gratifying that it has been deemed advisable to send out information concerning the debates to high schools conducting active mixed debate programs.

These debates form a portion of an intercollegiate radio debate tournament.

MEMBERS STUDY HISTORICAL WORK

Homor Anderson and Norma Brown were in charge of the program at the Poetry Club meeting, Friday afternoon. The topic of discussion was historical ballads. Examples of this type of poetry were read by members of the committee. A short historical background was given for each poem.

Norma read ballads by English authors—among them, "The Lady of Shallot", by Tennyson and "A Ballad of Francois Villon", by Swinburne. Homor chose American historical ballads and read Longfellow's "Ride of Paul Revere" and Holmes' "Wonderful One-Hoss Shay."

During the business session Mary Kathryn Pile, chairman of the initiation committee, gave a report on their plans. They reported that the initiation will be held in two weeks. A definite date will be announced later.

Since the initiates' probationary period ended this week, the club voted who should be accepted as members. Those chosen were Homor Anderson, Norma Jean Betts, Miriam Brown, Barbara Caskey, Iona Quince, Dorothy Reid and Harriet Walters.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

am going to see what likely young men we have in the party."

But this time McCormick had his answer ready. Calmly interrupting Hoover in the midst of a hot retort to Knox, he said in a loud voice: "Down-state they say if we're going to get anywhere in 1940, we've got to get rid of Mr. Hoover."

The bombshell broke up the meeting.

For a moment there was stunned silence. Then everyone broke into uproarious laughter. Mr. Hoover joined with them.

STARS SAY—
Saturday, November 18

RATHER adverse conditions prevail on this day, according to the auguries of the ruling planetary aspects. There may be sudden and disagreeable upsets with friction, inharmonious or quarrels with superiors, strangers or others of erratic temperament. Generally restive, unsettled and turbulent conditions are indicated, and these may be best stepped by close attention to rigid details of business, employment or hard work, which hold promise or recognition and suitable reward. Patience and perseverance win the day.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of sudden upheavals or turbulence, coming with whirlwind velocity and ending in quite unforeseen and possibly disagreeable denouements. Avoid disputes, friction with superiors, employers and strangers, and shun all manner of eccentric or revolutionary indulgences. Patience, hard work, close application may help in mitigating adverse and regrettable circumstances. Let prudence and restraint hold sway, with the intuitions a guiding factor.

A child born on this day may be studious, industrious and earnest despite erratic, restless and illtempered moods or outbursts. It may be fond of sudden moves, change and adventure.

Sunday, November 19
SUNDAY's horoscope holds testimonies or a contradictory nature. While there are auguries of happiness, success and much activity of a social interest, with much visiting, probably comradeship and courtship, or other sentimental relations, there also are signs of turmoil, strife and recklessness.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a productive and progressive year, with the fortunes favored and with many pleasant business and social contacts. But these may be put in jeopardy by rash, impetuous and ill-governed behavior. Moderation and restraint should permit the auspicious auguries to rule.

A child born on this day may be energetic practical and have good creative abilities and fair ambitions, but it also may be tempestuous, passionate and wilful. Early direction and discipline would help a promising career.

CHILDREN TO SEE FEATURED PLAY ON NOVEMBER 30

When the Child Conservation League presents "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" at the Chilton Theatre on November 30, one of the oldest known tales will show that it can hold the affection of children in competition with the best modern stories.

"Aladdin" is one of the "Arabian Nights," or "One Thousand and One Nights." This collection of tales was first compiled and published for Europe by Antoine Galland, a Frenchman, nearly three hundred years ago. But as far back as 947, nearly a thousand years ago, reference is made to a Persian work called "A Thousand and One Nights" by a writer of that day, which indicates that "Aladdin" was even then very well known.

When learned professors are debating, whether or not modern children should be permitted to hear fairy tales, here is encouragement for them. For over a thousand years, before the Americas were dreamed of, and while England was yet a group of small countries each ruled by its own king, the story of "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" was part of the folk lore of all the ancient civilized world. It travelled from Asia into Europe along the Mediterranean shores, and came to America as part of the folk lore of the early settlers.

Books were scarce in those hard, pioneer days. "Tell us a story" was a familiar cry in every mother's ears. It still is, for no possible surfeit of printed literature can take the place of stories told at twilight which mother or father received in the same way, through the voices of their own fond parents.

COOK DIVORCE

am going to see what likely young men we have in the party."

He paid high tribute to Governor Bricker of Ohio and even higher tribute to Governor Baldwin of Connecticut, although he added that the latter did not have a chance for the GOP nomination.

PUNDIT MARK SULLIVAN

Returning to the question raised by Bridges of declaring his own intentions, Hoover said: "Do you mind if I call in Mark Sullivan on this?"

Sullivan, veteran newspaperman and sagacious member of Hoover's medicine ball cabinet, came in immediately. A vigorous debate then took place in which both Hoover and Sullivan insisted that the ex-President could not possibly count himself out of the race. If so, they argued, he would immediately lose his strength to control the nomination. (This, incidentally, is the same argument used by Roosevelt to justify his silence on a third term.)

Ronald Bridges argued to the contrary. Smith remained on the side-lines.

The net impression gained by his visitors was that Herbert Hoover was determined that the next Republican campaign would be waged on a "vindictive Hoover" platform, that he had a certain "nuisance value" which he was determined to utilize, and that he was approaching the 1940 campaign exactly as if it were his own—with tremendous drive, energy and organizing ability, but with none too great understanding of the American people.

HOOVER VS. KNOX

This blind spot was dramatically underscored at a stormy meeting which several prominent Republicans had with Hoover during the neutrality fight.

They dined together in a private home, and afterwards Mr. Hoover spoke on the domestic and foreign policies which he felt the country should be pursuing. When he finished, Colonel Frank Knox, plain-spoken publisher and Landon running-mate, was asked to give his views.

Knox bluntly disagreed with Hoover and voiced his opinions so forcefully that the ex-President broke in with an angry challenge.

In an instant the two men were involved in a heated exchange; Knox standing, Hoover seated and nervously tapping the table with a spoon. The argument continued for several minutes, to the acute embarrassment of the others present.

Finally, in an effort to end the row, one of the guests turned to Chauncey McCormick, wealthy young GOP worker, and said "Tell us what they say down-state." Hoover didn't know it but this has been a standing joke among Illinois Republican leaders.

MCCORMICK'S BOMBHELL

Young McCormick, earnest and zealous about his politics, had been sent to down-state Illinois to raise campaign funds. He bombarded headquarters with reports which almost invariably began: "Down-state they think so and so. . . ." As a result, his friends had been kidding him with the questions. "Tell us what they say down-state."

But this time McCormick had his answer ready. Calmly interrupting Hoover in the midst of a hot retort to Knox, he said in a loud voice: "Down-state they say if we're going to get anywhere in 1940, we've got to get rid of Mr. Hoover."

The bombshell broke up the meeting.

For a moment there was stunned silence. Then everyone broke into uproarious laughter. Mr. Hoover joined with them.

STARS SAY—

Saturday, November 18

RATHER adverse conditions prevail on this day, according to the auguries of the ruling planetary aspects. There may be sudden and disagreeable upsets with friction, inharmonious or quarrels with superiors, strangers or others of erratic temperament. Generally restive, unsettled and turbulent conditions are indicated, and these may be best side-stepped by close attention to rigid details of business, employment or hard work, which hold promise or recognition and suitable reward. Patience and perseverance win the day.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year of sudden upheavals or turbulence, coming with whirlwind velocity and ending in quite unforeseen and possibly disagreeable denouements. Avoid disputes, friction with superiors, employers and strangers, and shun all manner of eccentric or revolutionary indulgences. Patience, hard work, close application may help in mitigating adverse and regrettable circumstances. Let prudence and restraint hold sway, with the intuitions a guiding factor.

A child born on this day may be studious, industrious and earnest despite erratic, restless and illtempered moods or outbursts. It may be fond of sudden moves, change and adventure.

Sunday, November 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds testimonies of a contradictory nature. While there are auguries of happiness, success and much activity of a social interest, with much visiting, probably comradeship and courtship, or other sentimental relations, there also are signs of turmoil, strife and recklessness.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a productive and progressive year, with the fortunes favored and with many pleasant business and social contacts. But these may be put in jeopardy by rash, impetuous and ill-governed behavior. Moderation and restraint should permit the auspicious auguries to rule.

A child born on this day may be energetic practical and have good creative abilities and fair ambitions, but it also may be tempestuous, passionate and wilful. Early direction and discipline would help a promising career.

INLAND YACHT CLUB

DECATUR, Ala.—Although this North Alabama city is more than 300 miles from salt water, it will have a yacht club. And the club will have yachts. Within two years Decatur tars hope to compete against Mobile and other gulf yacht clubs on their shore, Joe Wheeler Dam. The Joe Wheeler Dam in the Tennessee Valley development provides a slack water pond longer than the 50-mile Mobile bay and miles wide.

CHILDREN TO SEE FEATURED PLAY ON NOVEMBER 30

When the Child Conservation League presents "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" at the Clifton Theatre on November 30, one of the oldest known tales will show that it can hold the affection of children in competition with the best modern stories.

"Aladdin" is one of the "Arabian Nights", or "One Thousand and One Nights". This collection of tales was first compiled and published for Europe by Antoine Galland, a Frenchman, nearly three hundred years ago. But as far back as 947, nearly a thousand years ago, reference is made to a Persian work called "A Thousand and One Nights" by a writer of that day, which indicates that "Aladdin" was even then very well known.

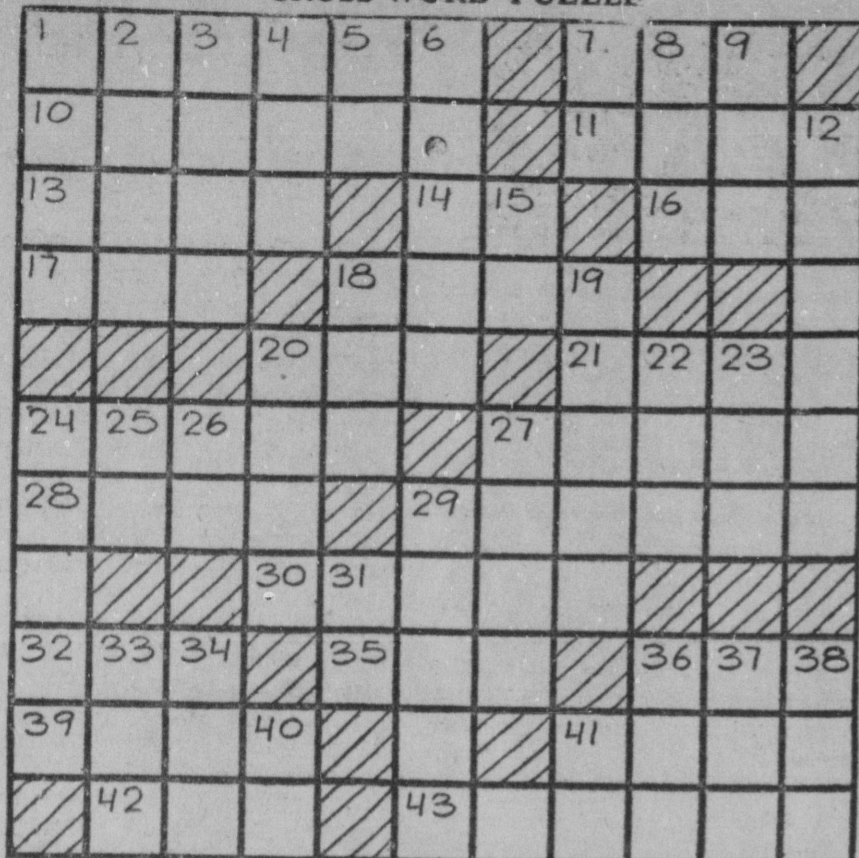

When learned professors are debating, whether or not modern children should be permitted to hear fairy tales, here is encouragement for them. For over a thousand years, before the Americas were dreamed of, and while England was yet a group of small countries each ruled by its own king, the story of "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp" was part of the folk lore of all the ancient civilized world. It travelled from Asia into Europe along the Mediterranean shores, and came to America as part of the folk lore of the early settlers.

Books were scarce in those hard, pioneer days. "Tell us a story" was a familiar cry in every mother's ears. It still is, for no possible surfeit of printed literature can take the place of stories told at twilight which mother or father received in the same way, through the voices of their own fond parents.

COOK DIVORCE

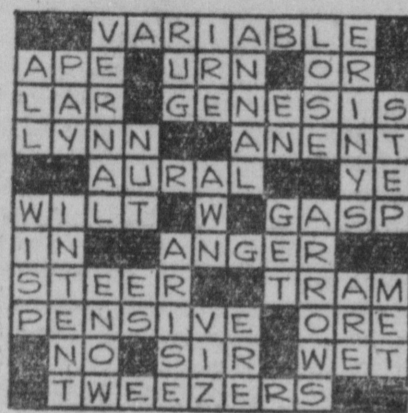

George E. Cook, 159 East Mill Street, obtained a divorce in Common Pleas Court Friday from Emma Cook on the grounds of neglect of duty and cruelty. The parties made a property settlement.

ANOTHER STEP NEARS IN FIRE TRUCK PROGRAM

Commissioners Expected To Take Definite Action At
Monday's Session

VOLUNTEERS TO ORGANIZE

City, County Property, 10
Townships To Benefit
From Cooperation

County commissioners are expected to take some definite action Monday on the cooperative program for a fire truck following the steps taken by Circleville councilmen.

"We're all ready to go," Ralph May, president of the board of commissioners, announced Saturday. He explained that commissioners had delayed taking any definite steps until it was determined how councilmen felt about the program.

In the last discussion of the program before the commissioners two of the members had agreed they would be willing to pay between $1,500 and $1,700 toward the purchase of a small truck and might go as high as $2,000 on a large truck. Funds spent by the county would be for the protection of county property.

The cooperative program includes the city, county and 10 townships. The city's share in the program will be to house the truck, keep it in readiness for rural runs and provide a fireman to operate it on runs in the country. The truck may be used on dangerous city fires.

Mr. May said he understood the next step in the program would be to organize a volunteer fire department.

SUPERVISOR OF PUBLIC BOARD AT CONFERENCE

Everett Shimp of Columbus, district supervisor of the public assistance program was the speaker at a meeting of the Pickaway County Board of Public Assistance held Friday afternoon in Probate Court.

Mr. Shimp reviewed the laws passed at various times in an effort to aid the needy. He pointed out the present laws are much better than the old regulations. Present laws assist in keeping the families together in the home, prevent an overlapping of relief agencies and it is less expensive to keep the children in the home than in the county children's home. The average cost of keeping a child in the county home is $20 a month, he said, while the average cost of keeping a child in its own home is less than $10 a month.

Miss Virginia Smith of Williamsport, in charge of the Pickaway County division of aid for dependent children and the blind, reported that 191 children and 38 blind persons in Pickaway County were given aid during October.

Due to the absence of the president, Mrs. Clark Will, the vice president, Judge Lemuel Weldon, presided. Board members present were Mrs. Hulse Hays, Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mrs. William Ulm, Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Frank Fitcher and Judge Weldon.

The Pickaway County board acts in an advisory capacity concerning local problems in the division of public assistance. Ohio has no state welfare board.

DOORLESS PHONE BOOTH MAKES BOW NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—A doorless telephone booth that will permit the user to hear even over the roar of subway trains will make its bow next summer. The New York Telephone company, after what it terms conclusive tests, is prepared to install the telephones in niches in the walls of the subway so lined that the sound waves from the trains will be absorbed and the person making the call can talk without shouting and hear with ease in spite of the rumble of frequently passing trains.

CONSTABLE HEISE FINDS NUMBER MEN 'HOLED UP'

"They're all holed up. It's like hunting rabbits after the first day of the hunting season."

That was the statement of Walter Heise, Circleville Township constable, Saturday, in connection with the campaign opened by B. T. Hedges, justice of peace, against the "numbers" writers and pickup men. After three arrests were made the campaign took a sudden slump and no additional arrests have been reported.

One man is slated to report for a hearing. Two others paid fines of $25 and costs each.

ANNUAL SEASON FOR TRAPPING OPENS IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18 — Wednesday of this week saw the curtain go up for the annual trapping season. The take of fur and pelts in Ohio is expected to be well over a million dollars this winter, according to Conservation Commissioner Don Waters, who bases the estimate on surveys made by Division field men in every county. In 45 counties the prospects are reported fair, in 34 good and in only four poor. Due to stocking by the Conservation Division and sportsmen's organizations raccoons are more numerous than in average years. The bulk of trappers' income will come from skunk and muskrat pelts.

The open season on raccoon, opossum and red fox (in certain counties), opened at 6 p. m. Wednesday to run up to and including January 15. The mink and muskrat season extends from December 1 to January 15, except in the Lake Erie District where the season runs from December 15 to March 15. Gray foxes are not protected at any time. Trappers must wear back-tags even if not carrying firearms.

Coon hunting must be only between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m., on open dates, and the limit is two coons, or pelts, in possession by a person, or persons hunting together. Climbers or other devices for climbing trees are prohibited. There is no limit fixed by law on other furbearers.

MOTHER TRIES TO SAVE CHILD; BOTH TRAPPED

MONROEVILLE, O., Nov. 18—A 12-foot well today claimed the lives of Mrs. Edwin Houck, 23, and her 18-month-old daughter, Shirley Ann.

Huron County Coroner J. D. Bradish said he was convinced that the child had fallen into the well, uncovered when Mrs. Houck obtained water for washing, and that Mrs. Houck had drowned in an effort to rescue the little girl.

The bodies were discovered in the well by Mrs. Houck's father, Edward Rahrig. The dead woman's husband, Edward, was at work in nearby Norwalk at the time of the tragedy.

AT WHITE FUNERAL

Among the out of town persons attending the funeral Thursday of Cliff M. White, former Pickaway County auditor and clerk of courts, were Mr. and Mrs. T. K. Proctor, Mrs. D. W. Proctor and Mrs. Lewis Cobb, all of Maysville, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. George Rothe, Columbus; Harold White, Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas White, Newark; and Miss Viola Cruikshank of Mt. Sterling. Lewis Cooper, who returned to the city due to the death of his stepfather, returned to Columbus to resume his duties at Ohio State University.

GERMANY SENDS MANY JEWS TO POLISH DISTRICT

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 18—To be ringed around with a "frontier" of barbed wire, 650,000 Jews will be evacuated to German Poland by next April, according to a Berlin story in the newspaper Politiken today.

A continuous stream of Jews is arriving in the new Jewish "state" around Lublin, the paper said, and by next spring 65,000 will have been sent from Vienna, 30,000 from Posen and West Prussia (formerly the Corridor), 170,000 from Lodz, 150,000 from the Bohemia-Moravian protectorate, and 240,000 from Germany proper. Conditions of hardship confront the Jews immediately on arrival, said the Politiken. The paper asserted:

Lublin itself is so overcrowded that the last train was forced to move on, the station master refusing to allow the Jews to get off.

Jews were allowed to take only 300 marks ($120 with them, plus luggage they could carry.

On arrival, all men up to the age of 70 are put to work building roads and drainage systems and reconstructing houses destroyed in the war.

Twelve hours of work a day are required, with only a half an hour's pause.

Jews, the Politiken went on, are placed in camps much like concentration camps, and many suicides were reported.

The intention, according to the paper, is to put barbed wire entanglements around the whole state when the migration has been completed, with Polish police and troops watching over it.

BREMEN FLYING SOVIET EMBLEM, NOT SWASTIKA

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 18— Instead of the swastika, the former German liner Bremen now flies the hammer and sickle of the Soviet Union, according to reports reaching here today from Murmansk, where the Bremen anchored after her dash from New York.

The Bremen, it was said, was transferred to the Soviets under the German barter agreement, and the Russians plan to start a Murmansk-New York service soon.

Copenhagen also heard that the German liner New York, skirting far to the North, dodged the British naval blockade in a race from America, and succeeded in reaching a German port.

ANOTHER STEP NEARS IN FIRE TRUCK PROGRAM

Commissioners Expected To Take Definite Action At
Monday's Session

VOLUNTEERS TO ORGANIZE

City, County Property, 10
Townships To Benefit
From Cooperation

County commissioners are expected to take some definite action Monday on the cooperative program for a fire truck following the steps taken by Circleville councilmen.

"We're all ready to go," Ralph May, president of the board of commissioners, announced Saturday. He explained that commissioners had delayed taking any definite steps until it was determined how councilmen felt about the program.

In the last discussion of the program before the commissioners two of the members had agreed they would be willing to pay between $1,500 and $1,700 toward the purchase of a small truck and might go as high as $2,000 on a large truck. Funds spent by the county would be for the protection of county property.

The cooperative program includes the city, county and 10 townships. The city's share in the program will be to house the truck, keep it in readiness for rural runs and provide a fireman to operate it on runs in the country. The truck may be used on dangerous city fires.

Mr. May said he understood the next step in the program would be to organize a volunteer fire department.

SUPERVISOR OF PUBLIC BOARD AT CONFERENCE

Everett Shimp of Columbus, district supervisor of the public assistance program was the speaker at a meeting of the Pickaway County Board of Public Assistance held Friday afternoon in Probate Court.

Mr. Shimp reviewed the laws passed at various times in an effort to aid the needy. He pointed out the present laws are much better than the old regulations. Present laws assist in keeping the families together in the home, prevent an overlapping of relief agencies and it is less expensive to keep the children in the home than in the county children's home. The average cost of keeping a child in the county home is $20 a month, he said, while the average cost of keeping a child in its own home is less than $10 a month.

Miss Virginia Smith of Williamsport, in charge of the Pickaway County division of aid for dependent children and the blind, reported that 191 children and 38 blind persons in Pickaway County were given aid during October.

Due to the absence of the president, Mrs. Clark Will, the vice president, Judge Lemuel Weldon, president, board members present were Mrs. Hulise Hays, Mrs. Harry Stevenson, Mrs. William Uhm, Dr. A. D. Blackburn, Frank Fischer and Judge Weldon.

The Pickaway County board acts in an advisory capacity concerning local problems in the division of public assistance. Ohio has no state welfare board.

DOORLESS PHONE BOOTH MAKES BOW NEXT YEAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—A doorless telephone booth that will permit the user to hear even over the roar of subway trains will make its bow next summer. CONSTABLE HEISE FINDS NUMBER MEN 'HOLED UP'

"They're all holed up. It's like hunting rabbits after the first day of the hunting season."

Hedges, justice of peace, against the "numbers" writers and pickup men. After three arrests were made the campaign took a sudden slump and no additional arrests have been reported.

One man is slated to report for a hearing. Two others paid fines of $25 and costs each.

ANNUAL SEASON FOR TRAPPING OPENS IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, Nov. 18 — Wednesday of this week saw the curtain go up for the annual trapping season. The take of fur and pelts in Ohio is expected to be well over a million dollars this winter, according to Conservation Commissioner Don Waters, who bases the estimate on surveys made by Division field men in every county. In 45 counties the prospects are reported fair, in 34 good and in only four poor. Due to stocking by the Conservation Division and sportsmen's organizations raccoons are more numerous than in average years. The bulk of trappers' income will come from skunk and muskrat pelts.

The open season on raccoon, opossum and red fox (in certain counties), opened at 6 p. m. Wednesday to run up to and including January 15. The mink and muskrat season extends from December 1 to January 15, except in the Lake Erie District where the season runs from December 15 to March 15. Gray foxes are not protected at any time. Trappers must wear back-tags even if not carrying firearms.

Coon hunting must be only between 6 p. m. and 6 a. m., on open dates, and the limit is two coons, or pelts, in possession by a person, or persons hunting together. Climbers or other devices for climbing trees are prohibited. There is no limit fixed by law on other furbearers.

Huron County Coroner J. D. Bradish said he was convinced that the child had fallen into the well, uncovered when Mrs. Houck obtained water for washing, and that Mrs. Houck had drowned in an effort to rescue the little girl.

The bodies were discovered in the well by Mrs. Houck's father, Edward Rahrig. The dead woman's husband, Edward, was at work in nearby Norwalk at the time of the tragedy.

GERMANY SENDS MANY JEWS TO POLISH DISTRICT

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 18—To be ringed around with a "frontier" of barbed wire, 650,000 Jews will be evacuated to German Poland by next April, according to a Berlin story in the newspaper Politiken today.

A continuous stream of Jews is arriving in the new Jewish "state" around Lublin, the paper said, and by next spring 65,000 will have been sent from Vienna, 30,000 from Posen and West Prussia (formerly the Corridor), 170,000 from Lodz, 150,000 from the Bohemia-Moravian protectorate, and 240,000 from Germany proper.

Conditions of hardship confront the Jews immediately on arrival, said the Politiken. The paper asserted:

Lublin itself is so overcrowded that the last train was forced to move on, the station master refusing to allow the Jews to get off.

Jews were allowed to take only 300 marks ($120 with them, plus luggage they could carry.

On arrival, all men up to the age of 70 are put to work building roads and drainage systems and reconstructing houses destroyed in the war.

Twelve hours of work a day are required, with only a half an hour's pause.

Jews, the Politiken went on, are placed in camps much like concentration camps, and many suicides were reported.

The intention, according to the paper, is to put barbed wire entanglements around the whole state when the migration has been completed, with Polish police and troops watching over it.

BREMEN FLYING SOVIET EMBLEM, NOT SWASTIKA

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 18— Instead of the swastika, the former German liner Bremen now flies the hammer and sickle of the Soviet Union, according to reports reaching here today from Murmansk, where the Bremen anchored after her dash from New York.

The Bremen, it was said was transferred to the Soviets under the German barter agreement, and the Russians plan to start a Murmansk-New York service soon.

Copenhagen also heard that the German liner New York, skirting far to the North, dodged the British naval blockade in a race from America, and succeeded in reaching a German port.

The voting does not concern the 1939 crop. Paul Mattheas, secretary of the Pickaway County AAA committee, said the votes would be received from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Those eligible to vote are H. M. Crites, Circleville; Fred Hulise, Straud Mathena, Olaf Thorne and Frank Bowling, all of Jackson Township; David Towell, Salt-creek Township; and George Foreman, Circleville.
